

The chick pecked the shell apart to get free. He shook himself smartly and yelled, "It's me!"

He lifted his head and chirped loudly to sing.

Come out, come out called the chicks and hens.
I'd like to see how you look, my friend.

Then raced quickly under Mama's warm wing.